GUILFORD HAS HEART

We Support Our Community

Thank you for always being there for your neighbors

ON THE COVER Lawn signs like these were given to families as a thank-you for donating to the Guilford Has Heart campaign, launched by Jen and Manish Shanbhag to raise funds for The Guilford Foundation's COVID19 Response Fund and the Guilford Food Bank.

Dear Treasured Friend of The Guilford Foundation,

There's no denying it. 2020 has been difficult in ways we could never have imagined.

But in the midst of the sadness, the loss, the hardship, and the injustice confronting so many, there actually has been a silver lining.

That silver lining is you.

You stepped up without hesitation when your neighbors urgently needed help. And in doing so, you made it possible for them to pay their rent bills, feed their families, receive much needed counseling, obtain adequate Personal Protective Equipment to do their jobs safely—and so much more.

You made it possible for them to go on.

It was during that awful week in mid-March, when everything began to change, that we put out a call for your help.

We realized pretty quickly that the coronavirus was going to hit some Guilford residents hard and fast—especially those that were already struggling to make ends meet. We don't typically work with individuals—we work through other nonprofit organizations. But the Women and Family Life Center does.

I picked up the phone to call the wonderful Meghan Scanlon, executive director at WFLC and we quickly devised a plan to launch the COVID19 Response Fund for Guilford.

Meghan and I thought if we could just raise $20,000, we would have a significant impact—providing immediate financial relief to people who tested positive, or lost their jobs, or couldn't afford childcare once the schools closed.

And here's the utterly amazing part. Within a few days we had exceeded our goal. By mid-July, 206 kind people like you donated over $133,000 for people in trouble here in Guilford!

Because of you, WFLC was able to provide thousands of dollars in relief to almost 80 families. That left thousands more for some of our most beloved, local nonprofit organizations who found themselves in need when the state shut down—like the Guilford Art Center, Guilford Center for Children, and the Community Dining Room, just to name a few.

We all know this is far from over. We don't know what this pandemic will look like in the fall—or even tomorrow.

But there's one thing I do know. You'll be there for your neighbors—like you always are—when they need help.

And that's why I know we'll get through this. I couldn't be more grateful for your compassion and generosity.

Thank you.

P.S. This is our FY 2019–20 Impact Report (ending Jan. 31, 2020) and I haven't even mentioned the amazing things you accomplished for Guilford in 2019—last year seems like 100 years ago now! So please turn these (virtual) pages to read about them—as well as three incredible stories about the crucial impact of your gifts since the onset of the pandemic.

P.P.S Turn to page 21 to see the names of all 206 fantastic donors to the COVID19 Response Fund for Guilford.

Small but mighty

How you helped get $38,750 to 77 Guilford families in desperate need

THE WOMEN & FAMILY LIFE CENTER and The Guilford Foundation had never done anything quite like it before. But it took just a couple of phone calls between W&FLC's Meghan Scanlon and our own Liza Janssen Petra to devise a way to get desperately needed cash into the hands of the Guilford residents who were hit hardest by the coronavirus.

TGF would handle the fundraising and W&FLC would handle the distribution of $500 grants—and in many cases even more—to families who were having trouble staying afloat in the midst of the pandemic.

Within a matter of days, caring donors like you had stepped forward with thousands of dollars in contributions. Social workers on staff at W&FLC began reviewing requests for assistance and distributing money.

It was heart-wrenching work. “One family’s experience really sticks with me,” says Meghan. “There was a single mom with three kids—all under age five. We sent her check out right around Mother’s Day. She opened the mail and started crying. You just knew that every second of every day, she was thinking about those three kids and how on earth she was going to get by.”

As of the end of June, TGF and W&FLC had awarded grants to 77 families in Guilford—grants that enabled them to pay their rents, feed their children, and care for their loved ones.

“We may be small but we have a mighty impact,” says Meghan Scanlon, executive director of Women & Family Life Center.

All thanks to people who care enough to do something for their neighbors when they need help. People like you. ♥

*Thank you so much for awarding me this grant!
I'm a single mother of two boys, 11 and 13 years old. This has been a very difficult time for me and my kids. The money will be an enormous help to me in paying utilities and buying food.
I want to thank you and your organization for thinking of us. I hope you and your families are staying healthy and are safe during this time.
Thank you and God bless you.
Diane, David, and Max*

I can't begin to express the gratitude I have for the Women & Family Life Center and The Guilford Foundation for helping me and my daughter during this tough time.

I was able to pay my rent this month because of your aid. Thank you from the bottom of my heart.

With gratitude,

Susan

When Meghan Scanlon, executive director of Women & Family Life Center, received thank you notes like these, she was overwhelmed with emotion. “Families were in tears, down to their last hundred dollars when they received these checks.”

I want to tell you how incredibly grateful I am to you and your organization.

As a single mom and family daycare provider, this has been an incredibly difficult time for my family. My daycare clients have all been leaving because of the virus.

It's incredibly hard right now. I keep reminding myself that it's temporary. But it's also a very scary and lonely feeling.

It makes me feel so much better to know that there are people out there like you who care.

Thank you again,

Ruby

Yes! We can do this

Your kind gifts helped the Guilford Art Center find a way to keep going

“EVEN THOUGH WE KNEW IT MIGHT BE COMING, when it hit, we panicked. If any organization tells you they felt different, I’d be surprised. We panicked!”

That was Maureen Belden’s reaction when she realized that GAC would have to shut its doors in March due to the pandemic. As executive director of one of Guilford’s most beloved institutions, she knew this would have a terrible impact on the bottom line.

At first, she planned on closing for two weeks, but that hope faded quickly. The entire spring semester was cancelled (along with the tuition that would have come with it).

Perhaps the worst blow hit when it became evident that the Guilford Craft Expo would have to be cancelled, too—for the first time in 63 years. It was a heartbreaking disappointment to staff, the exhibiting artists, and the entire regional community. And it meant the loss of a huge portion of GAC’s revenue.

“We immediately made the decision that all staff—including me—would have to reduce our hours and pay by 50%,” says Maureen. “And we furloughed a few part-time staff members. That was so hard; but we had to stop the hemorrhage, while keeping GAC functioning and our employees working as much as we could.”

ART: It's a necessity in tough times

But despite their losses, Maureen knew that GAC had to find a way to connect with the community. Confronted with the isolation and grief that came with the virus, people would need the beauty and respite of enjoying and making art more than ever before.

This is where generous donors like you helped save the day. The Guilford Foundation made an emergency grant of $10,000 from the COVID19 Response Fund—supported by contributions like yours! —to compensate for some of GAC’s massive revenue losses. Maureen and her staff used it to reinvent the way they delivered services.

From their homes via video meetings, the GAC staff and instructors put together online artist presentations and workshops, posted virtual galleries, and hosted Zoom roundtables—all at no charge.

It wasn’t the same—but it worked. And it proved that GAC could successfully offer—and charge tuition for—a full summer semester of quality programming, classes, and camps online (with outdoor socially distanced meetings when feasible).

And although it wasn’t like gathering on the beautiful Guilford Green, the Craft Expo took place too—online!

“The Guilford Foundation funding helped us figure out how we can survive and stay connected with the community,” says Maureen.

“It allowed us to say, Yes! We can do this!” ♥

It felt like togetherness

Maggie Moffett, owner of Mix Design Store, finds a way to connect people for a great cause

MAGGIE MOFFETT HAD FOUR $25 GIFT CARDS and she wanted to make the most of them.

She bought them in April, when her fellow Guilford merchants began promoting gift cards from their shops as a way to help them survive the pandemic shutdown.

Maggie knew as well as anyone just how tough things were. Her own business was down 92%. Nobody was shopping, and Guilford's local stores were suffering.

“Even for people who have the best intentions to shop local, it was so much easier to just go online

“People are struggling right here in Guilford. Everyone who entered the drawing was so excited to have a way to do something that was undeniably good—that would support our neighbors.”

any other option on the table for me.”

At the same time, she saw an opportunity to use her gift to encourage Guilford residents to join her in contributing—and to champion shopping locally.

Here’s what Maggie did:

On Thursday, May 21, at noon, she launched a Facebook fundraiser. She invited people to donate $10 during the next 24 hours to be entered into a drawing to win all four $25 gift cards. Not a bad return for the prize winner!

The donations started pouring in and word of the fundraiser spread online like wildfire. Soon other merchants were emailing and calling Maggie, saying, “We want in!” Within a few hours, the prize expanded from four gift cards to 14—for a value of $350!

“People said it felt like a way to take a mini-vacation from your desk, to play a game, to do some good, and to connect with your community—all at the same time,” says Maggie. “After so much isolation, it felt like togetherness.”

By noon the next day, Maggie had raised $3,250 from 161 donors! And here at The Guilford Foundation, we had a sizable—and unexpected—contribution headed our way to help people who were struggling from the economic impact of the pandemic.

It was one of those rare ideas that was a win for all involved.

“It felt great to put this money back into our community,” says Maggie. “I had 160 new friends overnight that had that same good feeling. Most of these donations were just $10, but altogether, they had a huge impact. Which just goes to show—anyone can be a philanthropist!” ♦ to the huge internet retailers and click ‘Add to Cart,’” Maggie says.

So when neighboring shop owners began urging their customers to buy gift cards to use later, Maggie “wanted to walk the walk and invest in my community.” She bought $25 gift cards from four of her favorite local shops.

She hoped to bundle them with her own online product offerings to boost sales, but they just weren’t moving. So she came up with a much better idea.

“I thought—I’ll just donate them somewhere.” Maggie says. “And the first organization I thought of was The Guilford Foundation—there was never

“Our donors trust The Guilford Foundation to respond to the needs of the community, to advocate for equity and justice, and to lead the way to improve and enhance the quality of life of all residents.”

Our deepest thanks to you—our compassionate donors—for your trust, support, and incredible generosity as we continue to respond to the needs of our community during these challenging times.”

Peter Barrett, Board Chair

P.S. There is little anyone feels sure about right now—except that there are still some very difficult times ahead. That’s why we need you more than ever.

If you are financially able, a gift of any size will really make a difference to the Guilford community.

Please donate to the COVID19 Response Fund, so that when your neighbors need your help, we’ll be ready.

Thank you for your compassion and generosity
